TOP TIPS

I keep a bag of small paper scraps.

Small children get great satisfaction from just snipping. I let them snip just for the sake of it.

After some time we gather up the snippings on the table and put away the bag.

I then produce PVA glue and sheets of paper.

The children spread glue all over the paper and then place their snippings onto the glue.

Some children layer more glue and more snippings.

We do not 'make' anything. It is 'abstract art' and can be very pretty.
